AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so tried by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, bold and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER." Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude?" Sincerely yours,

MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."

159 West 12th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."

Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRAGDON."

Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

A Race Among the Pueblos.

The runners advanced in two lines, facing each other, and were forming a sort of quick hopping step. This was called a dance, but looked like a simple jump. And while they waved boughs of cottonwood over their heads, and uttered a weird, wavering cry or whoop. Their tall and well-shaped figures were rather slender and wry than strongly-built, but the ardor and eagerness expressed in every muscle and feature as they stood awaiting the signal to start, and the fleet motion of their bare limbs as the few like winged creatures down the course, are things never to be forgotten. The naked bodies were painted in stripes of white and blue, or brown, reminding one of the English athlete's jersey; around their loins they wore tunics of bright-colored cotton, trimmed according to the taste of the wearer, with little bells or fringes of brilliant cottonwood leaves. The sides of their arms and legs were adorned with bands of white and gray feathers, stuck to the skin with pitch. More feathers, bells and leaves were fastened in their flowing black hair; some had diadems of long feathers stuck round their foreheads, others had huge horns of them behind their ears. Their faces were painted with bands of red, white and yellow—in short, they wore full dress. These young bucks were placed in semi-circles, faces east and west, one at either end of the three-hundred-yard course, each circle having an equal number of members from the rival sides. Now two runners, each representing a side, start from the eastward circle, and before one can see it, they have reached the winning line of the westward one. But as the foot of the foremost runner touches the line, one of his comrades in the westward circle lies away down the course, whereas the rival competitor here must wait to start till his man gets in. And so on, backward and forward, till every one has run in turn. Thus the man who gets ahead in the first race usually determines the issue of the whole, as the start he gets is carried forward by his side, and the rival runners seldom have time to make up the lost ground. Nevertheless, the race is watched with breathless interest, and it is exciting to see the agonized impatience, the quivering muscles of the poor, handicapped runners, who may not start till the lagging comrade is in. Occasionally the Indians would give vent to their excitement in a whoop, or a Mexican would bolt across the road on his impatient horse, while the old officials with their branches waived back the picturesque, excited, surging crowd. Once a drunken Apache and a Pueblo, eager probably for the honor of his side, got to fighting right under the shade of red boughs, to which the saint had been carried in process on at the beginning of the race. They were soon down on the ground, with fingers in each other's scalp locks, and the Apache presently whipped out his weapons, but upon this the alcalde had the combatants separated, and the Apache was subsequently observed looking chastened and subdued. When the race ended, which it did in favor of the southern Indian, the runners formed into lines, and set up their whooping once more, while from the terraces all the squaws bring loaves of black bread to the victors, much as other people would throw flowers on like occasions.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—An Ohio correspondent of the Fruit Register raised nine bushels of blackberries on a small corner of his farm that he could not work. He planted on land sloping to the south, and near a stream of water; the ground being rich and moist.

—Straw that is to be used for hedging stock should be cut short. It is then much more easily handled. The common practice is to leave it long, when much inconvenience is found on removing it on account of its clinging together and forming a solid sheet of manure.—Exchange.

—An eminent horseman gives it as his experience, after twenty years of trial, that a tireless horse can be best refreshed and strengthened by giving him a quart of oat meal stirred in a pail of water. This fits its stomach for stronger food, quenches its thirst and is indefinitely better than cold water.

—For cracked bags: Tincture of arnica, four ounces; tincture of aconite, one ounce; oil of lavender, one ounce. Mix and bathe the bag two or three times daily; rub it in well with your hand; give internally a teaspoonful of the mixture three times a day. Do not feed any grain to the cow.—Mirror and Farmer.

—Very careful experiments made in New York this season show that the flat culture of potatoes produces the finest tubers and the largest yields. The best results followed the Dutch method of planting, which consists of keeping the surface of the ground level, planting a single row in a place, covering it six inches deep, and allowing but a single stalk to grow in a hill, which are a foot apart each way.—N. Y. Times.

—Leave your parsnips in the ground all winter. They will be better in the spring than they are now. Frost makes them tender. Those that you dig now before the general crop is frozen in should be protected in a cool place or they may wilt. Parsnips appear very fine this season. They are an indigestible sort of thing, but many people like them in a pot and potato stew. They may also be cut in very thin slices, dipped in batter and fried. They are considered a delicacy in this way.—N. Y. Herald.

—We know of no better way to preserve cabbages through the winter, says the Germantown Telegraph, than that which we have recommended for a number of years. It is to plant or set them up in rows as they grow—that is, with the roots down—fill in with soil pretty freely, then make a covering by planting two posts where there is a fence to rest on, or four where there is not, allowing for a pitch to carry off the water; lay bean poles opposite the way of the pitch, and cover up with corn fodder, straw or boards, running through the winter, avoid as much as possible the sun side and close up again.

Sleep.

“Blessings,” exclaimed Sancho, “on him that first invented sleep. It wraps a man all round like a cloak.” It is a delicious moment certainly—that of being well nestled in bed, and feeling that you shall drop gently to sleep. The good is to come, not past; the limbs have been just tired enough to render the remaining in one posture delightful; the labor of the day is done. A gentle failure of the perceptions come creeping over one—the spirit of consciousness disengages itself more and more, with slow and hushing degrees, like a mother detaching her hand from that of her sleeping child; the mind seems to have a balmy lid closing over it like the eye; ‘tis closing—‘tis more closing—‘tis closed. The mysterious spirit has gone to make its airy rounds.—Leigh Hunt.

No Real Relief to be Expected.

Says the New York Sun: "In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1882, every man, woman, and child in the United States, white, black, or mixed, was taxed upon an average over seven dollars, under the operation of the present iniquitous Tariff and the Internal Revenue abomination. The State, county, and city taxes for the same year fell below this average; but taking the two elements together, the taxation in round numbers may be called fourteen dollars a head, or seventy dollars for an ordinary family of five persons. This sum represents about one-fifth of the average yearly wages of labor in most of our factories.

This heavy burden falls especially upon the workers for wages. With large families and small compensation, they have to pay this enormous taxation, distributed over almost every article consumed by themselves, by their wives, or by their children.

For nearly eighteen years the people have been oppressed by taxes that could only be justified by the demands of a great civil war. Now the Treasury is overflowing with an immense surplus, which has served as a constant incentive to cupidity, corruption, and prodigality. Under the stimulants of this surplus, the public expenditures have increased enormously; vicious legislation has been encouraged; river and harbor steals have passed; and multitudes of offices have been created as sinecures for impudent and exacting politicians.

This load of taxation has not only impoverished the toilers, but it has caused a great public evil by demoralizing the whole civil service, and by converting a hundred thousand officeholders into a standing army of political partisans.

For years past a cry for relief has come out of the cabins and cottages of millions of workingmen. It has attracted no notice from the party which had the power to grant a remedy. The monopolists have controlled legislation on this subject, and they are deaf to every proposal of concession by which their profits might be diminished.

Now, on the eve of an expiring Congress, this question is again debated, with no prospect of better success than heretofore. At the last session Mr. Kelley, professing to speak in behalf of the Committee of Ways and Means, voluntarily promised to bring in a bill which would reduce the Internal Revenue seventy-five millions of dollars. That announcement was followed by a canons where Mr. Kelley was disciplined; and then his pledge was redeemed by a little bill of reduction for sixteen millions on cosmetics, matches, bank checks, and patent medicines! And that bill was defeated.

In its defeat, however, it furnished the basis for the tariff agitation in the Senate and for the measure lately reported by Mr. Morrill from the Finance Committee. The House has also been discussed at the same time another bill from the Ways and Means. Neither of these schemes agrees with that proposed by the Tariff Commission, and none of the three gives substantial relief to the sufferers who most need it.

Hence the situation may be summed up briefly and conclusively: The bills before Congress reduce some of the present duties, but in every important instance they increase taxation. If neither of them should pass finally, or if a conference bill should be framed by Mr. Morrill and Mr. Ke'ley and be adopted, the existing burdens would continue in nearly all the force of their oppression. If these attempts should fail, the monopolists will rejoice as they fall back on war tariff, which some of them say does not give sufficient protection in time of peace.

The doors of real relief are closed for this Congress, no matter which of the suggested alternatives should come to pass. The Repniblican statesmen have shut their ears against reason and their eyes against light. The people will know how to find redress at the next elections.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District, St. Albans, Vt., Jan., 29, 1880.

Dr. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully yours,

P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a very deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you and it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, FEB. 19, 1883

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

"WE have a careful word for the stranger,
A smile for the sometime guest,
But oft for our own the bitter tone,
Though we love our own the best."

The Adelphian Circle will meet at the Temple this evening at 7:30.

A DESPATCH received in Maysville this morning says the steamer Telegraph will be down Tuesday evening.

THE PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Times says: J. D. Bridges cut a severe gash in his right hand last Saturday, by falling through his store window.

LIEUTENANT M. J. McCARTHY, of the Emmet Rifles, who has been at home on leave of absence, left this morning to join his company at Grayson.

MR. G. A. McCARTHEY will, about the first of March, remove his queensware store to the house on Sutton street lately occupied by Mr. A. J. McDougle.

During the period of the high water the Kentucky Central was the only railroad hereabout that maintained through and uninterrupted communications.

THE steamer Resolute with a tow of coal bound for Louisville, is tied up to the bank in East Maysville, waiting for the river to fall so to enable her to pass under the bridge at Cincinnati.

MR. JOHN P. RICKETTS whose death is announced elsewhere had an insurance upon his life in the Masonic Mutual Benefit Association of this city. His heirs will receive about $1,600.

THE Lexington News says: Will Jones, of Maysville, has gone to Danville, Va., to bring to Lexington for training with Dick Owens, two thoroughbreds, belonging to Mr. Marshall Wooding, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of J. T. Cunley, plumber and gas fitter, printed elsewhere. He has a full stock of goods on hand and is prepared to do work in the best manner. His dwelling is attached to his business place, and he can be found there at all times. Give him a call.

Big Saddle.

Probably the largest saddle ever made in Kentucky, may be seen at Zeeh & Co's., on Market street. It is what is known as the leather bar spring style and is twenty-two inches in length. It was made for a three hundred pound citizen of Stanford, Va.

Store Robbed.

THE grocery store of Mr. Alvin Franklin on Second street, East Maysville, was broken into by thieves on Saturday night and robbed of a lot of hams, canned goods and other property valued at about $40. The thieves got into the building by prying open one of the front windows. No arrests have been made.

Narrow Escape.

ON Saturday morning Messrs. O. W. Mason and Jos. Best in attempting to cross the overflowed road between the Flemingsburg turnpike and East Maysville, drove their buggy over into the deep water and would have drowned except for the timely appearance of Mr. Wm. Tolles, who went to their rescue in a boat. The horse was saved by cutting it loose from the buggy. The vehicle sank and cannot be recovered until the river falls.

BY TELEGRAPH.

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Seventy-four Persons Drowned by a Mine Caving in.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—The Diamond shaft at Braidwood was flooded at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, while 200 men were at work. Most of them escaped. Some seventy men are still in the mine, and although a large gang of men are at work in an adjoining shaft, trying to dig around to the flooded shaft, there is small hope that the imprisoned men can be saved. A large number of the men are married. Great excitement prevails in Braidwood.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Latest news from the cave-in at Braidwood reports the number of lives lost at seventy-four. The work of trying to get at the men is still going on, but there is no reasonable doubt but that all the imprisoned men will be found to be dead. The scenes around the mouth of the pit are of the most heart-rending nature.

John P. Ricketts.

MR. JOHN P. RICKETTS, a well known citizen of Maysville, died this morning about one o'clock after a short illness. He was born in this city and was forty-three years of age on the 27th of last December. He had been a member of the Masonic fraternity for many years and was considered one of the brightest workers of the order. At the time of his death he held a membership in Confidence Lodge, No. 52, of this city, and had at various times discharged the offices of Master. His wife and three children survive him. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, from the residence under the auspices of the Masons, after services by the Rev. J. K. Pace, of the Baptist Church.

The Flood of 1774.

When the first white settlers built their log cabins in this, then dense forest, the Indians told them a wonderful story of a great flood of the Ohio, when the water rose more than one hundred feet, extending from "hill to hill." As near as they could fix it this phenomenal "big river" occurred in 1774. The Indians pointed out marks on the trees and on the side of the hills to confirm their story, which the devastating hand of civilization have entirely effaced, or visible proof of the fact might now exist.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. Lewis Stickley, of East Maysville, who has been very low with pneumonia, her many friends will be glad to hear is much better.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for every one in the Spring. Emigrants and Travelers will find in it an effectual cure for the eruptions, boils, pimples, eczema, etc., that break out on the skin—the effect of disorder in the blood caused by sea-diet and life on board ship.

RERDELL, one of the defendants in the Star Route case, has caused much consternation among his associates by pleading guilty to the charge against him. He has offered to tell all he knows about the matter, and will probably be used by the Government as a witness.

DESPATCHES from Memphis state that the river is rising there and an overflow is feared by the planters, who are preparing for the worst.

A convention has been called for March 6 at St. Paul's Cathedral, Indianapolis, to choose a successor to the late Bishop Talbot in the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Indiana.

Wheat looks well. Farmers have begun to turn under the so. Another King—Lewis is grinning, it's a boy. Miss Wera Wernica, of Ohio, who is visiting at Mrs. John Ross' is very sick. Her friends are very much alarmed.

Misses Addie and Eva Hord left Sunday, on a protracted visit to their aunt, Mrs. Hattie Hord, near Flemingsburg.

One of our good clever widowers is contemplating matrimony soon.

The peddlers are wending their way through our county.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Helena, M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. Sims, of Flemingsburg.

Lea, don't you want a joyful house-keeper?

Mr. William Rawlings sold his crop of tobacco to Mr. Thomas Best. Price not known.

DARLING.

SHANNON.

J. T. Jefferson and "Col." Trigg each lost a valuable horse the past week.

Messrs. N. and D. Watson have purchased several crops of tobacco. One of M. D. from $10, and one of J. T. Jefferson at $8.50 per hundred.

A gloom has fallen over the entire community over the death of Mrs. A. Jefferson which occurred on Monday, February 24th.

W. H. Cole, the missing man, again made his appearance. Rumor has it that he started to Chicago to invest the Mutual Co-operative Funds of that place. On his arrival at Cincinnati he made a slight mistake. Instead of boarding the train for Chicago he boarded the K. C. and returned home.

The ball given at Pike's Hotel, Sardis, Ky., by the young men of this place was a success in every respect. At an early hour the crowd was gathering in until the house was filled to overflowing. After enjoying a bountiful supper retired to the ball room where the light fancies toe was tripped until the "wee small hours." The sun had fairly risen when the crowd departed, returning many thanks to the host and hostess for their kindness.

The first annual meeting of the Fand W. Club was held here last week. A grand reunion in general and a splendid supper was served, after which the house was called to order by T. B. Arthur and Jeff. Culver was chosen chairman pro tem. The opening address was delivered by G. C. Cole, after which the election of officers for the ensuing year took place and the following officers were elected:

HUMOROUS.

—Of 140,000 known species of plants a man eats only 300, and some of these give him the headache in the stomach.

—Young man, don't try to forget your identity and become somebody else; for the other chap is sure to be an inferior person.

—“Sarah,” said a teacher to one of his pupils—“Sarah, can you give the definition of a skipper?” “No,” answered Sarah; “but perhaps a cheese mite.”

—There are no less than thirty men in this country who are known as “the great silver-tongued orator.” Somebody with a gold tongue should come along and scoop the crowd.

—An English paper wants to know why Americans say “de-po” rather than station. Huh! Why do English people say station instead of depot? Answer that.—Somerville Journal.

—“If I were a girl,” says a New England clergyman, “I would not parade too much in public places.” Of course he would not. He would swing on the front gate and watch the young fellows in the neighborhood do the parading.

—It is now stated that the Princess Louise will spend the winter in British Columbia and that the Governor-general will not return to the Capital till the middle of January. The Princess and the Governor-General, it will be remembered, are married.

—A man in New York has invented what he calls a “thinking machine.” If it does not go with a crank this machine, like a new newspaper, will certainly fill a want long felt. There are hundreds of wealthy, good looking young people in society who are entirely unable to think.—N. O. Picayune.

—A Newburyport parrot, which had been in one family for over fifty years, died last week. It was a great relief to the family when the bird died. If he had ever got out of the house alive, there would have been the richest dish of gossip that ever delighted the good people of Newburyport.—Boston Transcript.

—A customer, with wrath in his tones and fire in his eye, entered a ready-made clothing establishment in this city the other day. Throwing down the bundle he had bought the day before, he exclaimed: “Here, take back this suit, and give me my money. You swore it was all wool when it is half cotton.” “Well, I declare!” exclaimed the dealer, throwing his hands into the air. “Well, I declare. Now that is surprising. I guess the wool that cloth was made from came from a sheep raised in the South that had been allowed to run through cotton-fields. That’s the only way we could possibly get any cotton in the cloth we sell here.”—Printed in the Chronicle-Herald.

A Romantic Career.

The story of Renben Porter Lee, who has just been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for embezzling $200,000 from the First National Bank of Buffalo, reads like a romance. Entering the institution as messenger boy at the age of fifteen, he had filled the positions of bookkeeper, teller, cashier, Vice-President and President at the age of thirty-two. He was elected to the latter position last January, at which time the stock of the bank was worth 160. Three months afterward the institution closed its doors, hopelessly insolvent. Lee obtained the money by discounting his own, his wife’s and his father’s notes, each in excess of the ten per cent of the bank’s capital stock, which is the highest limit allowed to any single borrower. He allowed the reserve to be drawn below the fifteen per cent, required by law and carried paper for a worthless firm to the extent of $1,000,000 at times. He received his sentence with seeming indifference, but his young wife was nearly heart-broken. He appears to have been a consummate and heartless scamp, who richly deserves all the punishment he got.—Chicago Herald.

—The youth just graduated at college is not quite competent to conduct an extensive wholesale business, run a metropolitan daily journal, or preside over the destinies of a nation.
